Hundreds of visitors made their way to a tiny village in Northamptonshire – population 40 – for the Winwick Country Church Fete 2015.

This year, the popular event took place on Sunday September 6th, and the good news is, with record numbers attending, it looks like it was the biggest since Winwick first started holding Fetes more than 70 years ago.

In addition to more than 50 stalls, visitors were able to watch Duck Races in the brook and take tea to the accompaniment of Lutterworth Band.

The delightful gardens of Winwick Manor were open for the afternoon.

With plenty of games for children, lots of free car parking, and toilets available on site, the Winwick Country Church Fete was once again a perfect family afternoon out in the glorious Northamptonshire countryside.

See you again in 2017 - the first Sunday in September!
